News You Need to Know – The presenters, from the Minnesota Coalition Against Sexual Assault, will provide a foundational overview of sexual violence. Explored will be 10 key concepts that will enhance understanding of the complex dynamics of sexual violence from offender characteristics to common victim reactions. These concepts will provide practical guidance to the requirements related to the campus response to sexual violence.

Leah Lutz, Collaboration Specialist, Sexual Violence Justice Institute @ MNCASA

Leah is a collaboration specialist and the training and resources coordinator with SVJI @ MNCASA. Leah Lutz joined MNCASA in April, 2008 and has over fifteen years of experience in sexual and domestic violence related work. She works closely with law enforcement and prosecutors to develop and deliver trainings customized for these responders no matter the agency size. She also has first-hand experience working directly with teams and/or the team leaders in urban, rural and suburban settings. She has in-depth knowledge on the dynamics of sexual assault and the complexities of changing systems. She is a graduate of the University of Minnesota.

Lindsay Gullingsrud, Membership and Advocacy Services Coordinator

Lindsay Gullingsrud joined the staff of MNCASA in July, 2007. Prior to this, Ms. Gullingsrud worked as the Sexual Violence Education Coordinator in the Women's Center at Minnesota State University, Mankato (MSU-M). During her time at MSU-M, Ms. Gullingsrud established the Sexual Violence Education Program, the first point of care for students in crisis, as well as designed and implemented preventive programs addressing sexual violence on campus.
